

Mark your calendar!

Monday, March 15 – Tuesday, March 16, 2010
Las Cruces, New Mexico

A two-day workshop sponsored by the Humane Society of Southern New Mexico

Fighting Animal Cruelty

Catherine Wolfe, Attorney and Author of “Get The Edge in Fighting Animal Cruelty Cases”

Who should attend this class?

- Animal control officers, humane and other law enforcement officers
- Judges, lawyers, prosecutors
- Humane Educators, Humane Organization Members
- Rescue Workers, rehabilitators
- Veterinarians, Shelter Workers
- Anyone who is interested in the welfare of animals and in bringing perpetrators to justice.

Learn

- How to conduct smart investigations and effective presentation of the evidence.
- Which evidence is most important
- How to operate with maximum efficiency to handle more cases, and do so successfully.

Brochure with registration form to follow, with detailed information on cost, location and accommodations.

For more information, please contact MaryIn Zahler, Vice President, Humane Society of Southern New Mexico, coolwolftwo@yahoo.com; 575-647-1477.

Ms. Wolfe has authored numerous articles about animal welfare and has also given numerous presentations about animal welfare and cruelty investigations/prosecutions. Ms. Wolfe was a presenter at the National Animal Control Association (NACA) Annual Conferences in 2005, 2006 and 2007. She also taught Level II Animal Cruelty Investigation Certification for the Association of Certified Cruelty Investigators.

Ms. Wolfe currently belongs to a 4-member dog pack where she is valiantly battling her way up the pecking order and hopes one day to be the alpha-wolf(e).

